

Chapter 8-4 8/20/2022
It's very Hot in August!

It's sweltering at the beginning of August, but it rained on the first day this year, which might be a good sign. The Gnome Almanac clearly states that rain is a good sign for GRASS to Grow fast. It also says that underground tunnels should be very dry because the grass will suck up all the water that comes down from God's sky. The Fairies are happy that the rain comes down to COOL everything off, but the unicorns kind of go a little nutty & not listen to the fairies. The rain starts falling about 3 or 4 am and then stops until Lunch time because the fairies are sleeping then.

One day, it was sweltering, and the fairies and their Unicorns were working in the tunnels; as they approached a curve, they spotted a huge fat female spider walking toward them. They immediately stopped all movement so as not to scare the spider, as the spider has very sensitive legs and feet. They knew it was a spider that could hatch, and baby spiders could be Born inside the tunnels, and they weren't going to want to get in the way of that because hundreds of baby spiders would be everywhere in the tunnels. These babies would be looking for their mommy, and the tunnels are not that big; they really needed to get this spider above the tunnels and in the open air. So they lined up, blocking the tunnel to the Tree and re-rooting the spider down another path. Slowly the mom spider went down that alternate path leading out of the Tunnels and into the grasses area. The fairies were so happy. The unicorns didn't care, but they were glad to return to work. The fairies continued towards the center island. The sun was setting, and the Unicorns were getting hungry, so they headed back to the tree. The fairies fed the unicorns their meal with plenty of "bark butter." Then they headed off to their rooms when three fairies came running back, saying something was in their beds. The Mommy spider found the small fairy house and was sleeping across their beds.

Now, the Gnomes had already gone to work in the tunnels at night, so the fairies couldn't get them to help get the spider out of the tiny house. They did send a fairy & a Unicorn to let them know a Mommy Spider was IN their small cabin and to think about what they might be able to do after work. It was funny because a Gnome had talked to a GUY in Florida, and he mentioned that they might need some spiders because of all the bugs. About 2 hours later, gnomes returned and said they needed a way to put this mommy spider to sleep.

A plan was in the making..... The fairies took a blanket they kept for their unicorns and used the “Magic of the Fairies” (dust.....) Then they snuck into the small cabin and covered the mommy spider with the blanket covered in Fairy dust. The gnomes then gently carried that spider out to the BOX they built so they could travel on the "back of a GOOSE" that had a cold! He couldn't honk all the way to Florida because that might wake up the mommy spider. The journey was challenging, but they made it in and delivered the MOMMY spider to a lovely building called “the Tower of terror” at Disney Land. A week later, that spider had at least 200 new spiders. The spiders all now live in Disney Land Tower of Terror.

The gnomes got a nice reward to..... more Meals for their special animals and the Unicorns.
